Inture. There will be a great deal of hard work and hard thinking to be done upon work and hard thinking to be done upon the political disturbances here have yimpertant questions. Matters, which will seriously touch the interests of the merchant and the capitalist, will have to come before a body which is largely composed of men who, however great their natural gifts may be, are by mode of life, by lack of opportunity, and in some cases by prejudice, incapable of judging fairly and impartially. It is indeed a prity that these interests which have made the prosperity of the country, have built its steamers, reared its palaces, opened up its waste lands, and contributed so largely to its revenue should not be better represented than they are. In Honolulu these interests are absolutely unreconstant. interests are absolutely unrepresented. The GAZETTE has ever claimed that the Hawaiian should have to the full his rights both in and out of the Legislature; but it must claim even justice to the capitalists as well as to the masses. In representation to the present Legislature the capitalist has not had justice, the  $P.\,C.$ A's sneer notwithstanding. It is an ill advised and short-sighted policy which has

Born the San Francisco Merchest and Braddicete have a great deal to say upon the Reciprocity Treaty, and they say it well. In the former, among much firing of small arms there is a very able and lengthy article by Dr. J. Mott Smith, reviewing Henry A. Brown's letter to the President. The doctor deals with facts and figures and adds a few drops of satire to brighten his dose and give it dash, which cuts up Mr. Brown's luculariation very smartly. The article made a considerable stir in San Francisco, but as one of the Gazerre's articles says to-day, many have already read the evil and will not care to even look at the other side of the question. The letter in Braddicete's is written by Mr. Creighton of the San Francisco, that is cancer, leprocy, that is eating into their vitals. It seems fair that, in a calm and judicial sprit, an inquiry should be made into the grounds on which these hopes and expectations are based.

The health of the people is the supreme law, says an old Latin maxim. No one who knows anything about the role that imported diseases have played in the work of extermination that has gone on here, will for a mement call in question the applicability of this saying to our own gaplicability of this saying to our own times and to this race. Every one will bid God speed to any wise effort that can be made, and will favor the expenditure of any reasonable amount of money for the care of the lepers and for attempts to cure the terrible disease, leprosy; provided always, that there is a reasonable ground of correctation and a sufficiently into the calm in a supreme law, says an old Latin maxim. No one who knows anything about the role that imported diseases have played in the work of extermination that has gone on here, will fer a mement call in question the applicability of this saying to our own gaplicability of this saying to our own gaplicabil question. The letter in Bradstrott' is written by Mr. Creighton of the San Francisco Ecming Post. He shows the advance of these Islands in civilization, speaks of the growth of trade between San Franthe growth of trade between San Franthe work that has already been done, and that the money expended shall not be the growth of trade between San Francisco and this place, the number of menthat trade gives employment to, the number of vessels which have had to be put on to assist in carrying the products to and fro, and finally brings forward a table showing that the statement of the Chronicic that England and Germany are displacing the United States in the trade with the Islands is thoroughly false. Hawaiian Reciprocity Treaty is an important document. It presents with skill-ful arrangement the opinion of the press in California, and adds its own notes of and he does not find that the Reciprocity Treaty adds to his private fortune. He is willing, rather too willing, to accept hard stories about us. This circular shows the Henclain difficulties of meeting the charges against us of maintaining "slavery." The Rev. Mr. Frear published a careful, temperate. Californian. He was entitled to consideration as a man of reputed veracity. Moreover he was independent, holding no property whatsoever in the kingdom. Inproperty whatsoever in the kingdom. Instead of treating his presentation of the case with some regard, he was at once attacked as one of the 'missionary gang,' and it was intimated that he had been bought up. Mr. Cooper and Mr. Thurber, instead of publishing Mr. Frear's statement prefer to ignore it and publish the attacks on him. Now this is just what we bought up. Mr. Cooper and Mr. Thurber, instead of publishing Mr. Frear's statement prefer to ignore it and publish the attacks on him. Now this is just what we should and must expect, as human nature goes. The Gazerre said, last week, that it was useless to make a defense against the "charges" unless it was known how that defense could be made effective. This ground is now illustrated thus, by showing that men of high repute in the commercial world unite in a sharp attack on us, without apparently inquiring into on us, without apparently inquiring into the justice of our cause, or considering what has been written in our favor. The more we consider the subject the greater the difficulties are of wisely considering and acting upon it. The editorial letter the authorities arrest a man here and from Washington to the Argonaut is very suggestive. Mr. Pixley is certainly on are probably five hundred cases of illicit with prominent men in salling which are never found cut. The washington. While the commercial men are fighting the Treaty, the politicians are disposed to maintain it on political freight lists of our inter-island steamers. are disposed to maintain it on political do that which will encourage a close politienl alliance. Mr. Pixley says, the ques-tion in Washington is political and not commercial. Even our contemporary the P. C. A. mourned over the fact that there were not more white Representatives in the Legislature. There will be a great deal of hard work and hard thinking to be done upon.

Take a walk through the fixth there in town, under the very look of the authorities, is this trade arried on. Take a walk through the fixth through the fixth there is to carried on. > at public expense, at the government dispensary in Kikihale and at the leper hospital at Kakaoko, is of such a nature as to merit the thoughtful attention of all. The hopes of the Hawaiians have been raised on the tiptoe of expectation that at length successful headway is to be made against the cancer, leprosy, that is eating into their vitals. It seems fair that, in a Hawaiians are enthnisiastic, as they frequently have been before; money is being poured out and more is called for. When some time ago he was questioned as to what he proposed and what he promised, he denounced the old system and proposed a new one (at least one that was new to him). He stated that he had a new theory of leaves a theory out to original to himself. leprosy, a theory quite original to himself, but it is an evil that must be recognized which simplified things amazingly and thology, etiology, symptomatology and all the other ologies of this disease quite within the grasp of the most ordinary intellect.

No, he did not expect to cure leprosy, but he was going to cure syphilis which is the same thing as teprosy. When asked if out he was going to cure syphilis which is the same thing as teprosy. When asked if he found any authority for his novel theory among the writers on leprosy he replied in the negative. When asked if he had ever made a study of leprosy be-fore, he again said no. When asked how his theory agreed with the evidence of history, and the recorded observations of writers for the last four thousand years, or Co., and of L. E. Chittenden who has done so much effective work for reform in the House of Representatives. Attacks from such men are not trifling. These men do the thinking and writing for thousands of other men, and their opinions have weight. However, this is not a case of pure unselfishness. More would only say that these records were at fault and not to be depended upon. The situation then seems to be this, that the government physician puts himself in the Philadelphia press. Thus does not abate the bitterness of the Pijians against Sir Arthur Gordon one iota. The hatred Count de Brissac, in the Princess of Bugdad. Mr. Wells is well spoken of by the Philadelphia press.

By the Rema Zeitzey, it appears that Mr. Wilhelm Wildensam, a nephew of the Hon. H. A. Wilmann of this city, has just obtained the second prize for sculpture in the art competition at Munich. This gentleman is studying art in Bome, and the control of the progress occasions been successful in similar competitions. The honor is the greater this year, as there were no less than 707 competitions and Munich, a thorough art center, must bring forth no mean artists to run for the prize.
